ADVENTURE TREKKING

It's a multifaceted and dynamic form of exploration that caters to a wide range of outdoor enthusiasts, from digital nomads to cultural pilgrims (and everything in between). It encompasses a wide range of walking adventures, each offering its unique blend of excitement and discovery.

Definition: An umbrella term for diverse travel experiences focused on foot-powered exploration with a lightweight approach.

Unlike traditional backpacking, which often focuses on wilderness and remote trails, Adventure Trekking is about embracing diversity in travel experiences.

The essence of Adventure Trekking lies in its adaptability and the freedom it offers.

Six Moon Designs

"Ever since my first high school adventure on the Appalachian Trail,

I've been hooked on backpacking. A few years later, in the summer of 1977, my wife, Linda and I took off to hike the Appalachian Trail (AT). We were one of the first couples to hike the entire trail southbound.

Following our AT hike, we moved from Virginia to Oregon. As impoverished college students, we learned to sew much of the equipment needed for our backcountry forays.

In 2000, I worked to reduce my pack weight for a hike of the Pacific Crest Trail. I made much of my own gear, this time not because I couldn't afford it, but because what I wanted simply didn't exist. Through this experience, I realized there was a need for affordable, ultralight gear in the market

That's when the idea of Six Moon Designs was born.."

- Ron 'Fallingwater' Moak

Commitment to Sustainability

Since our humble beginning, we have held sustainability as one of the key tenants when producing gear. That is why we have always strived to use long-lasting material, and minimum packaging, and encourage our customer to properly care for their gear and send it in for a repair instead of a replacement.

Six Moon Designs is committed to continuing to improve our sustainability by:

- Utilizing recycled material where we can and/or materials that meet the Bluesign® criteria
- Reducing the amount of plastic used in packaging, with the goal of completely phasing out single-use plastic by 2030
- Our headquarters are powered by 100% renewable energy through the PGE Green Future Choice Renewable Power Program.
- Eliminating all PFAS chemicals from our product line by 2025
- Utilizing silicone-coated fabrics for our shelter line. This is not only PFAS-free, but also greatly extends the lifetime of our shelters, by eliminating delamination of the waterproofing found in PU-coated materials
